ANZELA
25th Annual Conference

Compliance, Creativity and Culture: balancing regulatory demands and educational values

28-30 September 2016
Rydges Auckland

Supporters:
WELCOME FROM THE PRESIDENT:

You are invited to attend the 25th annual conference of the Australia and New Zealand Education Law Association from 28 to 30 September at Rydges Auckland.

The conference theme explores the tension between compliance and creativity and how to achieve the right balance. Schools and tertiary education organisations need increasingly to comply with legislative and regulatory frameworks while still trying to retain key educational values. While education is about creativity, citizenship and cultural diversity, preserving those ideals in a risk-aware environment is an ongoing challenge.

We have an excellent programme for you – presenters from right across the education sector and a wonderful range of topics – some that will focus on practical usefulness, including those in a workshop format, and others that will address policy ideas and initiatives. Presenters are from South Africa, the United States and China as well as Australia and New Zealand, and sessions will include papers with international collaboration and comparative aspects. Presenters will examine the current challenges to education and law in a local, national or international context, and provide a focus for stimulating and informative discussion.

We encourage you to join our conference, where your fellow delegates will be education lawyers; those involved in primary and secondary school governance; principals and senior staff; professionals in the public sector; representatives from the teacher unions; and academics from the tertiary education sector.

We are fortunate to have as our keynote speaker on the opening day, the Honourable Steve Maharey CNZM, Minister of Education in the previous Labour Government and current Vice Chancellor at Massey University. Steve will present the annual Anne Shorten plenary address at the conference. He has a wealth of knowledge about education at all levels in New Zealand as well as being involved for many years in some significant developments in the legislative environment. He is also a thoroughly entertaining and engaging speaker. Information about the plenary speakers appears below, along with the draft programme, accommodation options and a registration form.

We look forward to seeing you in September.

Regards,

Virginia Goldblatt
President, New Zealand Chapter ANZELA
Director, University Mediation Service, Massey University

ABOUT ANZELA

ANZELA is the Australia and New Zealand Education Law Association Ltd. Our aim is to promote the study and discussion of law relating to education and to advance knowledge and research about the law in education at all levels. ANZELA was established in 1991 with the aim of bringing together academics, legal practitioners, educators and others who have an association with/or an interest in education law and legal issues affecting education.

Honourable Steve Maharey CNZM, Vice Chancellor of Massey University, NZ

Steve Maharey is a former Member of Parliament for Palmerston North and member of the Labour Party. He left politics and the party before the 2008 general election to become the Vice-Chancellor of Massey University.

In Government, Steve held the roles of Minister of Education, Minister of Broadcasting, Minister of Research, Science and Technology, Minister for Crown Research Institutes, Minister responsible for the Education Review Office, Minister of Social Development and Employment, Minister of Housing and Minister of Youth Affairs.

Earlier in his career Steve was a senior lecturer in Sociology and before that a junior lecturer in Business Administration. His main academic interests include government and the public sector, social policy (particularly social development), education, social change and politics. Steve is currently Chair of the Committee for University Academic Programmes, a Deputy Chair of Asia New Zealand, Deputy Chair of Universities NZ, a member of the Territorial Force Employers Support Council, a Board member of FoodHQ, AgriOne, Massey University Foundation, the Riddet Institute and the Manawatu Cancer Society. He is Patron of the Manawatu Squash Association and Central Football. He is a Director of Massey Global Ltd.

Steve has extensive experience in all forms of media. He has contributed to eleven books and is a frequently invited public speaker.

Professor Laurence Boule AM, Australian Catholic University

Professor Boule practised law for five years before becoming an academic. He has held academic positions at four Australian law schools and has taught at universities in New Zealand, the Pacific, Africa and Europe. He was a foundation staff member at the Bond University Law School where he established the Dispute Resolution Centre, which continues to provide extensive training and continuing professional development after two decades. His current teaching and research interests are in mediation, dispute resolution, globalisation and international economic law.

Professor Boule has published extensively in constitutional law, employment law, mediation, and international investment. His books on mediation have been published in seven countries. He has presented papers at numerous international conferences.

Professor Boule has practised for 20 years as a mediator and as consultant to governments on conflict management and dispute systems design. He was chair of the National Alternative Dispute Resolution Advisory Council for two terms and currently serves as Chair of the Mediator Standards Board. He has also served on the National Native Title Tribunal as a part-time member.

Dr Farah Palmer ONZM, Tainui, Ngati Maniapoto, Senior Lecturer and Director, Te Au Rangahau School of Management, Massey University, NZ

Dr Palmer has a particular research interest in race, gender and leadership issues in sport management, and her most recent publications have focused on elite Maori athletes and their cultural identities in sport, the leadership and organisational culture of the All Blacks, Black Ferns, Maori All Blacks, Maori women’s experiences in sport management, and the involvement of mothers in elite sport as leaders and athletes.

For 10 years Dr Palmer captained the New Zealand women’s rugby team, the Black Ferns, and since retiring in 2006 has been a professional development manager for the Manawatu Rugby Union, an independent member of the Maori Rugby Board, a member of the Women’s Advisory Committee for the International Rugby Board, and research consultant for the New Zealand Rugby Union. She is also the Director of Te Au Rangahau (Maori Business & Leadership Centre) and an associate of Te Mata o te Tau (Academy for Maori Research and Scholarship at Massey University).

Dr Palmer’s current community commitments include being a trustee for an alternative education programme with a sport/Maori approach (Manukura) and a member of the Ministerial Taskforce reviewing Alcohol Advertising and Sponsorship. She teaches a leadership paper and promotes leadership development opportunities such as the Young Women in Leadership@Massey workshop for Year 12 female students.

AUCKLAND - THE CITY OF SAILS

Auckland, based around two large harbours, is a major city in the north of New Zealand’s North Island. The city skyline is dominated by the Sky Tower and Viaduct Harbour, full of super-yachts and lined with restaurants, bars and cafés, is the focus of the seafront. Close to the centre of the city is Auckland Domain, the city’s oldest park, based around an extinct volcano and home of the formal Wintergardens. Wherever you go in Auckland, you’ll find something special - it’s a whole region waiting to be explored. The city centre’s world-class shopping, food and wine scene, and galleries are encircled by wine regions, stunning beaches, pristine rainforest and the magnificent Hauraki Gulf.
